EXECUTIVE BOARD TO

Controlling Body of Steel Workers Expected to Formally Declare the Big Strike Off.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Pittsburg, July 28.—Officers of the Amal-gamated Association to-day took the first the excitable descendant of Brian Boru, step in carrying out their agreement with Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan. They sent out telegraphic notices to all the members of the National Executive Board, which is the controlling body in the organization, summoning them all to a meeting in Pittsburg

Tuesday afternoon.
This meeting is for the purpose of hearing the report of President Shaffer and Secretary Williams on the result of their visit to New York. There will be a proposition to hold another conference with the officials to hold another conference with the officials of the operating company, and this will probably be adopted and a conference held. It is expected that this meeting will simply record, in an official way, the agreement arrived at at the conference in New York on Saturday, and the strike will be off.

The strike of the steel and tin workers of the Annalgamated Association against the linited States Steel Corporation will probably be settled this week. The conference held in New York Saturday between officials of the United States Steel Corporation and President T. J. Shaffer and Secretary John Williams of the workers' organization has resulted in paving the way for a renewal of negotiations between the two conflicting interests.

It is said that a basis for such a conference has been arrived at. This basis will not be divulged until later this week. If the basis is satisfactory to the General Exceptive Committee of the Amalgamated Association the conference between the association and the manufacturers will proceed at once. If, on the other hand, the basis is not what the Amalgamated Association considers negotiable grounds, the strike will continue.

considers negotiable grounds, the strike will continue.

President Shaffer and Secretary Williams of the Amalgamated Association returned from New York this morning. They spent many hours in conference with the leading officials of the steel trust, and came home with hopes for an early ending of the strike. Secretary Williams was found at his home at 8 o'clock this evening. He admitted that he had been with President Shaffer in New York, and had seen J. P. Morgan. He would not say what had taken place there. He said he was pledged to secrecy.

Asked if the terms as printed in the papers this morning, which covered the settlement of the strike, were correct, he replied that they were purely guesswork. No terms could possibly be made without the full consent of the General Executive Committee of the organization. It is learned here that a meeting of the executive board has been called for Tuesday.

SENATORIAL FIGHT DIVIDES ILLINOIS

Many Prominent Politicians Cautious in Expressions of Opinion on the Contest.

YATES FACTION AGGRESSIVE.

Its Leaders Are Making Vigorous Effort to Arouse Sentiment Against McKinley, Cullom and Dawes.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—There were many incidents at the Peoria convention. any one of which being absent Richard Yates would not have been nominated for Governor of Illinois last year. One of the most important of these was the cast-iron instructions from McLean County that held the big delegation for Mr. Yates. McLean is in other respects an important political division in the Republican party. Is it not the home of former Governor Fifer, of former Vice President Stevenson, of the Ed O'Connell, of the handsome and versitile James O'Donnell, of John Eddy, who the excitable descendant of Brian Boru, Ed O'Connell, of the handsome and versitile James O'Donnell, of John Eddy, who grows younger in appearance every year; of the soldier statesman, Colonel Hefferman; of Dunc Funk and other Funks and Stubbleshelds, and last, because most important, is it not the home of the Honorable James Neville, lord high chief executioner of Richard II?

I visited Bloomington the other day, and it affords me pleasure to report that all the great men of McLean are enjoying good health, and those on the pay roll—and most of them are thus happily situated—feeling good. There are not enough Democrats in McLean County to give the Republicans a degree of fever on election day, and all the squabbles and unprintable language are confined to the Republicans. There was enough of this variety to furnish more than one entertaining letter.

No Dawes Scatiment.

Ed O'Connell told me there was no Dawes sentiment in McLean County; that Mason had a considerable following, but Martin Boru Madden stood higher than any other candidate for United States Senator. Mr. O'Connell's Irish eloquence and enthusiasm were keyed way up in G in expatiating on the virtues and intellectual and commercial attainments of his favorite.

Nobody else eemed to agree with Mr. O'Connell.

Uncle "Dunc" Funk, member of the last two General Assemblies, from whom the foxes could learn wisdom, exhibited his cave of gold on slight provocation, but positively refused to divide his views on political subjects. He "might be a candidate for the House next year" and he might not—hadn't fully made up his mind. He had "no favorites for United States Senator; all were good men, and"—here he showed all the gold—"there will be some others not yet mentioned." He had a pleasant word for everybody, and if the hard-up Bloomington merchants had only known of the execulent humor of the president of the First National Bank at that time I have no doubt they could have borrowed half the reserve on their individual notes. Mr. Funk was a first-class membe

Fifer May Favor Dawes.

Governor Fifer was preparing for a trip to the Northern lakes, and was densely ignorant, as usual, concerning the political pulse in county, State and nation. He had no favorite for United States Senator. But a director of the local ice company afterwards told me that the former Governor, at a recent meeting of the directors, took occasion to speak of Mr. Dawes in the highest possible terms. This story was spread over Bloomington, I'm told and the Yates-Neville fellows. Who cordially hate Fifer because he is linked with Cullom and Mc Kinley, are using it against Dawes. It was not explained, however, how the good will of the ex-Governor for Dawes would injure to the interior of the faction here?" I asked a gentleman who is not an officeholder, an officeseeker, not even a politicaln.

Leader of the "Knockers."

It's everybody against Fifer. All the other fellows are after Joe's scalp, Neville is the leader of the "knockers," and he's other fellows are after Joe's scalp, Neville is the general. He is the leader. The anti-Fifer fellows are stronger in the country precincts. Bloomington is satisfied with Fifer and his crowd. O'Connell is with the 'knockers' because he hopes to be here?" I asked a gentleman who is not an officeholder, an officeseeker, not even a politicaln.

Leader of the "Knockers."

It's everybody against Fifer. All the other fellows are after Joe's scalp, Neville is the general. He is the leader. The anti-Fifer fellows are stronger in the country precincts. Bloomington is satisfied with Fifer and his crowd. O'Connell is with the 'knockers' because he hopes to not explained, however, how the good will of the ex-Governor for Dawes would injure the latter's chances for votes in a caucus.

Governor Yates's friend, Neville, has taken on more avoirdupois and is now wearing stand-up collars, which he changes every day. Bloomingtonians ascribe this token of advanced civilization to the position Mr. Neville occupies with Governor Yates. When Neville reaches the next step and takes to shining his shoes in the middle of the week, it is proposed to give him a reception and invite the Governor and his staff to Bloomington and make the occasion one long to be remembered in the annals of the town.

"Original Yates Men" Plentful.

There are more "original Yates men" in "Orlginal Yates Men" Plentifal.

There are more "original Yates men" in McLean County than you could shake a stick at in a year. All of them have not been taken under the shelter of the State Treasury, and they are howling with all their might. One of them told me that the appointment of Neville alone would not satisfy the Governor's friends—some of the boys must be taken care of and the sooner the better. I told this to Neville.

"I guess McLean County is getting its share of the good things," he replied, "Doctor Kell of Danvers is first physician at the Kankakee Hospital, and I have four men in the Chicago grain office, besides other places to the number of four or five. McLean County will get her share, if I have any influence, and I guess I have." Then the wicked man winked his left eye over his spectacles, as much as to say, "you know something about that."

Neville's Attitude.

something about that."

Neville's Attitude.

Mr. Neville did not like to say anything about the United States Senator to be elected in 1903, but his manner was extremely significant. He allowed there would be several candidates, and as good as rated he did not like the cut of Mr. Dawes. He preferred Mr. Hitt, "and if Dune. Funk is elected he will vote for Hitt," was his conclusion.

Mr. Neville thought that Congressmen Warner, Cannon, Hopkins and Hitt, by combining their strength, could defent Dawes. If the four Congressmen could agree on one of their number and put their shoulders to his car, he would be a sure winner.

That's exactly where the rub always comes in. Each one wants to be the prophet, and he thinks the others ought to agree upon him. Mr. Neville's suggestion that Mr. Hitt is the strongest of the four is not worth par, because it is known that Senator McKenzie, who will have a vote for United States Senator in 1903, is already tied to the Dawes army—in fact, is one of the main spokes in the Dawes wheel, and McKenzie lives in Hitt's district. There may be, and probably is, one or two other membe, and probably is, one or two other men-bers in Mr. Hitt's district already outspoken for Dawes.

bers in Mr. Hitt's district already outspoken for Dawes.

Boilver's Selection Causes a Stir.

The principal topic of discussion in McLean County is the selection by Congressman Warner of young Jake Bohrer for Postmaster to succeed the late Doctor
Barnes. The Yates contingent, the few followers of Mason and Ed O'Connell, Martin Boru. Maden's manager, are making a great bullabaloo over it, and trying to stir the people to mutiny against Fifer and Cullom and Dawes. Bohrer is Fifer's son-in-law, and an active, hustling fellow, a member of the new set of young Republicans, who expect at an early day to run Republican politics of Illinois. There appears to be no question as to his Republicanism, his qualifications, and all that. He was chairman of the County Committee in two campaigns and it is acknowledged he made a fine record.

ord.

Beyond the peradventure of question the McKinley-Cullom-Dawes-Fifer faction in McLean County is strengthened, and the fellows out in the scorching pasture with no shade in sight are perspiring blood, with their tongues lolling from their parched throats.

"Look at the Fifer family," they say, "gittin' everything in sight," and they overlock the fact that Congressman Warner is primarily responsible for the appointment, as it is in his district. There don't appear to be much opposition from the young

FORCED TO PLAY TOREADOR WITH A MADDENED BULL.

Hermann Nagel Carelessly Wears a Red Handkerchief Into the Pasture and Has a Fight for His Life-Animal Finally Tosses Him Into the Air and He Alights on the Safe Side of a Barbed-Wire Fence Badly Hurt.

Cornered by an enraged bull yesterday morning, Hermann Nagel, 38 years old, a farmer of Dawson, St. Louis County, battled with the animal for his life in true toreador fashion. Unthinking, he went into the pasture wearing a big red handkerchief about his neck, but this, by the adept manner in which he availed himself of it to madden the buil until rage almost blinded the animal, probably saved him from death. He is now at the City Hospital, seriously injured from the despgrate encounter, but will recover.

Nagel owns a small farm and dairy on the Florissant extension of the Suburban Railroad. He has twenty head of cattle, including a large, muscular and perfectly formed Jersey bull. The animal is very valuable, and normally tractable, but at times, if teased, becomes dangerous. In the present warm weather the cattle have been allowed to remain at nights in pasture, but are driven to the stable yard and fed in the early morning. Nagel went yesterday to drive the stock in about 6 a. m. He had just arisen from sleep and had dressed hurriedly. In his haste, though an experienced stockman, he forgot the effect of lurid colors upon a bull.

He had herded the cattle together and headed them for the barn yard. Now he remembers from the first the bull appeared restless, pawed the ground and seemed unwilling to go with the cows. He endeavored to urge the bull ahead by waving a stick to urge the buil ahead by waving a stick which he carried. His actions seemed only to excite the animal more, and, suddenly, the brute turned upon Nagel, lowered its head and, with a mad bellow, charged.

Nagel, though taken by surprise, managed to avoid the first rush. But the buil wheeled and again charged. Then Nagel bethought him of his bandana, and instantly he knew the cause of the animal's rage. In the emergency he determined that it would be best to anger the brute to the utmost in order that its charges and lunges be unseeling. He accordingly tore the broad handkerchief from his neck and waved it in the face of the oncoming buil. The animal roared at this insult and charged the more furlously. But Nagel remained cool and a second time stepped aside in safety.

The farmer then ran toward a wire fence which girded the pasture. The buil, however, had soon recovered itself and was in pursuit, and Nagel had a third time to dodge that he might avoid being gored.

Finally Nagel, by a third sprint, came within a few feet of the fence and in another moment would have been over and unscathed, but he tripped and fell, and bewhich he carried. His actions seemed only

There were half a dozen old soldiers who wanted the place, but they couldn't agree on one of their number, and to appoint one and disappoint the others would be cruelty from Congressman Warner's standpoint. Malodorous Politics.

Washington, July 28,-"The acquittal of Fosburg on the charge of murdering his sister, May, at Pittsfield, Mass." said Horace A.

May, at Pittsfield, Mass.," said Horace A. Joyce of Illinois, "reminds me of a story of a man who was hanged in Kankakee, Ill., the first year of the Civil War for a murder committed by other men. The story was revived during the Luetgert trial, and the instance is only one of a number I might cite of men going to their death for crimes they never were even remotely connected with.

"The crime I speak of was the murder of a young white woman, Mary Murphy, for which Wiley J. Morris, a negro, was hanged in 1890 at Kankakee. Her parents lived near Pontiac, She visited them one Saturday and was murdered the following day, while walking home along the railroad track. Her body was found near the rails.

"It was proved that Morris was walking along the railroad behind the woman at a much faster gait. It was believed at the trial that he overtook her. That night he was seen in Pontiac. He went first to Jollet, then to Michigan, but was brought back for trial. There were blood stains on his garments. He attributed these to a fight he had in Bloomington.

"When he was tried, one man tied up the ior trian. There were blood stains on his garments. He attributed these to a fight he had in Bloomington.

"When he was tried, one man tied up the jury, and a change of venue was taken to Kankakee. On the scaffold he died screaming. You are murdering me."

"Two years later, C. G. Hildebrand, a noted outlaw in the Indiana Penitentiary, wrote a story of the Buckeye Bill's Gang, and gave, among other things a detailed account of the killing of Mary Murphy. The gang kept her in its possession three days before murdering her and laying her body on the railroad tracks.

"Those who were familiar with the case, including the Sheriff of Livingston County, never doubted the truth of the outlaw's story, nor the proof, too late secured, of the innocence of Morris."

Joseph Merritt Died at the City Hospital.

Joseph Merritt, 42 years old, a laborer, of No. 1841 Division street, was found unconscious in his room yesterday afternoon, and was taken to the City Hospital, where his case was diagnosed as carbolic acid poisoning. He died at 8 o'clock last night.

Merritt left nothing to indicate that he contemplated suicide. An empty bottle, which the hospital doctors said had contained carbolic acid, was found in his room, eleven months are as follows:

Mr. Fisher of the Hocking Valley said that he was meeting competition, and Moulton Houck of the Ohio Central, and Mr. Jaynes of the Short Line, both said the same thing. Being pinned down to it, Mr. Houck said he could not agree to abolish the practice just now, as he has contracts on lasting until the last of November. Donald suggested that Mr. Houck file these contracts with the association, and further discussion is prevented until this request is compiled with.
